From the President:

Jean and I hope that everyone has had a grand summer. We spent 8 days in Nova Scotia, Canada to escape the never-ending summer heat 90° to 100° C almost non-stop from early June to mid-August. Nova Scotia is part of the Canadian Maritime Provinces for those who wish to dust off their Geography lessons. The area is full of North Americanism - 50,000 Plus Americans - who remained Loyal to the Crown (AKA The Loyalists) - were sent packing to Nova Scotia after the American Revolutionary War. They remain More British than the British Themselves. The Acadian French remain a very active population. They were the first European settlers in North America, in 1604, and still speak an old French Language. The region also has a very active Celtic Highland Scottish community who settled here after the Battle of Culloden in 1746. The Celtic Scottish language was the dominant language until the 1940s when the Government decided to make all children learn school work through English. The Native Americans are also very active in the region, and again spoke their own language until the 1940s. The Government is currently spending copious quantities of money to reintroduce the languages and cultures to these societies.

The Irish Brigade of 7 Exhibitors had a GREAT showing this August at the Great American Stamp Show in Hartford, Conn. We had 8 exhibits and won Three Large Golds; Two Golds; and Two Vermeil as well as One Reserve Grand Award; The APS Research Medal and The APS Most Popular award (voted on by show attendees) – Most importantly - My Granddaughter, Tabitha won the Youth Grand Award for The History of Blarney Castle and her sister Laurelei won the Youth Champion of Champions for 2023 / 2024. Her exhibit is The Life of Saint Patrick in Ireland. Laurelei also won the APS 2023 / 2024 Most Popular Grand award. Did I mention that stamp collecting and exhibiting is something the You Can Do with Your Grandchildren or other family members.

We are progressing with our 75th Anniversary celebration plans for next year with a souvenir card being designed by Bill O'Connor and his committee of enthusiastic members. More information will be given at our AGM on October 5th 2024 at 11:00 Eastern Daylight Time. The 2025 AGM will be in Saint Louis March 22 2025. My understanding is that both the cost of this Card and the 2025 AGM will be mostly covered by members' contributions, hence resulting in little cost to the EPA. I understand that An Post will also be providing the EPA with a 75th Anniversary card as they did for our 50th in 2000 (No promises for our 100th Anniversary).

My many and more thanks to our Editor Steven for our FOUR, issues of The Revealer per year – PLEASE Help, Steven does need articles for the Winter Revealer. Thanks again to John and Jean for keeping our Association on track and on an even keel with their hard work as Secretary and Treasurer. We are all very Grateful to Michael Canavan our Vice President who makes my life MUCH easier by organizing the Zoom meetings for the Board and AGM. Michael is also the organizer of the various EPA awards presented at our AGM. Finally, Many thanks and more to Michael O'Reilly for his energy and diligence with FOUR Eire Philatelic Association Auctions per year. Michael's efforts resulted in almost $5000 contributed to the EPA Treasury (See the Treasurer's report). PLEASE keep bidding and donating material for Auction.

Best wishes for the Pending Autumn-time.

Treasurer's Report for September 1 2023 to August 31 2024

Hello fellow members of the ÉIRE Philatelic Association.

The past 12 months find the ÉPA in positive financial shape, largely due to the hard work of our auction manager Michael O'Reilly and the ÉPA auctions which have added $4600 to our Bank account. We also received $405 in member donations (down from $2273 last year). These combined funds contributed greatly to our net income of $4190 (compared to $6697 in 2023).

However, we also received a one-time fund transfer of $3605 from our AIB bank in Ireland to our Wells Fargo account in the USA. This one-time transfer resulted in most of our net income for 2023 /2024. I will send a STAMPA souvenir to all members who send the ÉPA a contribution during the 2024-2025 membership dues period (For contributions received before Dec. 1 2024).

Membership dues are down about $1500 from 2021 with several members opting for digital only membership at $20 rather than $30 ($35 for non-USA). We received $362 from Special Offers (Thank you Tim O'Shea) and Advertisements in the Revealer (Thank you Richard Kelly).

The biggest expense is the printing and mailing of the Revealer which cost $7862 last year, an increase of $1200 due to higher postage and printing costs. Many thanks to our printer and mailer, Minuteman Press who have tried to limit the cost increases of printing the journal. We are now faced with TWO postage increases per year in January and July. The Revealer is sent via First Class because we no longer have the volume to send via Bulk mail. But the mail is now returned to John Sharkey if the address is bad or a member has moved, resigned or passed away.

The annual expenses of the Treasurer, Secretary, President and AGM remain about the same as 2023 with small increases due to inflation. We now have the additional expense of $300 for web site maintenance.

Two Final Notes: We closed the Year short on August 11, 2024 because of vacation travel. We do not anticipate any significant changes in income or expenses. Final adjustments will be shown in the Winter Revealer. The second note: We decided to hold recording dues payments received in August for year 2024 / 2025 until after Sept 1 2024 which starts our new Fiscal Year. This will allow a better recording and monitoring of the ÉPA membership dues.

Full details can be seen in the Income Statement and Balance Sheet which accompany this report.

Good luck and best wishes for 2024 / 2025

Robert and Jean Benninghoff

History in Search of Postal History

Robert Benninghoff

I am very interested in Irish History and how the Irish influenced and interacted in the history of other countries. As Philatelists, Our Challenge is to find Postal History - mail, letters, documents and stamps that document historical events. This article will look at three examples with a challenge to readers to see if they have any additional materials that relate to, and enhance the story

John Joseph Coppinger and Fort Verde, Arizona

I came across the following information about J.J. Coppinger during our 2023 Christmas Vacation in central Arizona (Figure 1). Coppinger was a well-educated professional soldier who spent most of his life in the armies of Europe and the USA. He was born in Midleton, Co. Cork on 11 October 1834 into a powerful Irish Catholic Landowning Family (Figure 2) (1). He died in Washington D.C. in 1909. He fought for the Army of Rome (1860), the Union Army in the American Civil War (1861 to 1865), the American Indian Wars (1866 to 1880s) and finally the Spanish American War (1898).

His Military Career began in the 1850s with the British

I became interested in the gentlemen and his tenure at Fort Verde (near Prescott) (Figure 3) and his rise in ranks during the Indian Wars. Promotions in the American Army were slow after the Civil War and often could take decades. He was cited for his "Energy and Zeal while in command of troops operating against hostile Indians in 1866, 1867 and 1868" and promoted to the temporary (Brevet) rank of Colonel in 1868 (2). Coppinger went back to Midleton in 1871 to deal with the family business but returned to the American West after a few years and was promoted Major in 1879 and Lt Colonel in 1883. He married Alice Blaine in 1883, and the ceremony was attended by the President of the United States, showing how high he had risen in Washington Society (3). Coppinger Retired in 1898 with the rank of Major-General after 36 years of US

Military service. He is Buried in Arlington National Cemetery. His grave is marked by Large Celtic Cross My challenge to our readers is to find the Postal History that documents Coppinger's esteemed military career, particularly mail between Coppinger and his family in Ireland. A letter from President Arthur, who attended his wedding, would be Grand.

Experience life through the eyes of a frontier soldier at Fort Verde State Historic Park in Camp Verde, Arizona. The fort was a base for General Crook's U.S. Army scouts and soldiers in the 1870s and 1880s. From 1865 - 1891, Camp Lincoln, Camp Verde and Fort Verde were home to officers, doctors, families, enlisted men, and scouts.

The park is the best-preserved example of an Indian Wars-period fort in Arizona. Today, visitors can experience three historic house museums that are listed on the National & State Register of Historic Places. The park offers picnic tables, restrooms, RV and tour bus parking, and is ADA accessible. Stop by and step into Arizona's past!

The Visitor Center is open 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. daily and is closed December 25.

Thank you for visiting!

Visitor Center

The Visitor Center includes admission, book store, and gift shop. Parking is available for buses and RVs. Living history programs can be provided for your group by calling in advance. School and tour groups are welcome. All facilities are ADA accessible.

The Visitor Center also has an area for visitors to dress up in period clothing and take pictures!

Museum and Exhibits

The Adjutant Headquarters is also the main museum with artifacts, photos, videos, and interpretive exhibits and artifacts focused on the Indian Wars history and lives of those who lived and served at Fort Verde, including soldiers, Indian Scouts, settlers, post surgeons, and Native Americans.

Three historic house museums remain on Officer's row: Commanding Officer's Quarters, Bachelor Officer's Quarters and the Surgeon's Quarters, all furnished in the 1880s period.

Frequently Asked Questions

Where's the stockaded wall?

None of the 43 forts in the Arizona Territory had walls around them and the fort was never attacked.

Who were the Native Americans in this area?

Yavapai (from the west) and Apache from the south and east.

When was the military present in the Arizona Territory?

From 1865 until 1891.

When was Fort Verde operational?

From 1871 to 1891.

Were all of the military stationed here Cavalry?

No. 90% of the soldiers stationed at Fort Verde were actually Infantry.

How many troops were stationed here?

The maximum number was 306 enlisted, 11 officers, 19 civilians, and 36 Apache Indian scouts. The average number of enlisted men was only 110.

Fig 3 Brochure page (left) and Display Plaque (below) from the Fort Verde Museum showing life on the High Plains desert in Arizona during American Indian Wars of the 1800s. John Ford is reported to have used John Joseph Coppinger as an inspiration for several John Wayne westerns. These movies were filmed in nearby Monument Valley in the north eastern part of the State (see Figure 1).

Stockaded forts, common in some parts of North America, were of no particular value in Arizona. To obtain supplies, Indians attacked isolated ranches and freight wagon trains, and it was tactically better for them to engage army units in the hills and canyons.

The high number of Medals of Honor awarded to soldiers stationed in Arizona during the 1870's and 80's bears some testimony to Indian ferocity and skill in warfare, but the final outcome of the Apache wars was not determined by the battle skill nor courage exhibited by either side. It was determined by resources and organization of effort, and by which side could consistently outdistance and outlast the other in a very mobile war of attrition.

The Apaches and Yavapais lacked unity, partly because the small band and its loyalties were compatible with nomadic tradition. When in the field, the army was not burdened by immediate family concerns as the Indian warriors often were. By winter campaigning; by keeping on the move, the army achieved increasing advantage with its greater resources of personnel, supplies and communications. Overriding all from beginning to end, the growing settler population and the increasingly intensive use of the land were terminating traditional Indian culture. These patterns were repeated throughout most of western North America during the second half of the 19th Century.

Anniversary Celebrations at Shannon Airport

The first anniversary slogan that I can find is a slogan postmark used in Limerick celebrating the 25th anniversary of the first flight to Shannon in July 1939.

The 1/5d 1964 Europa stamp (C91) was cancelled in Limerick. The only cities that used this postmark were Dublin, Ennis, Galway and Limerick¹⁴.

Fig.18 : Photo postcard showing several views at Shannon Airport circa 1975. The postcard was mailed from Shannon to the U.S. and has a slogan postmark FLY VIA SHANNON AIRPORT.

On May 12, 1988, An Post issued two stamps commemorating Inaugural Transatlantic Crossings. The 46-cent stamp showed the first airplane, the Mercury, to cross the Atlantic on a commercial flight when it carried ½ ton of mail and newspapers from Foynes to New York in 1938.

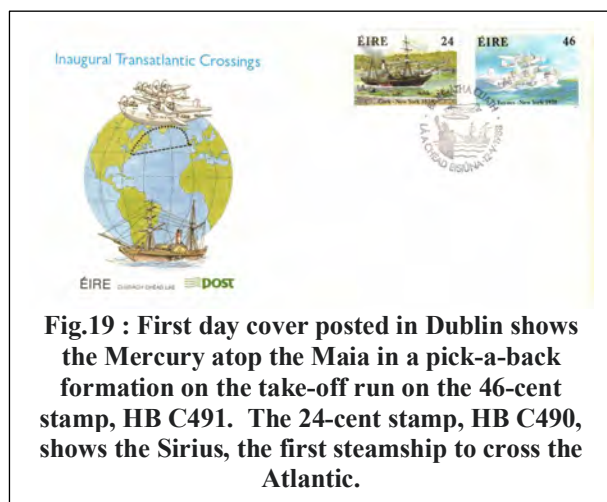

Fig.19 : First day cover posted in Dublin shows the Mercury atop the Maia in a pick-a-back formation on the take-off run on the 46-cent stamp, HB C491. The 24-cent stamp, HB C490, shows the Sirius, the first steamship to cross the Atlantic.

Fig. 20: An Post celebrates Irish Commercial Aviation.

A fiftieth anniversary slogan postmark was issued on October 24, 1995 with the slogan postmark SHANNON AIRPORT 50, 1945-1995, and used at Shannon (Town). It marked the 50th anniversary of the American Airlines flight Flagship London that inaugurated passenger and mail service from New York and Boston to Shannon and London.

My last cover celebrates Irish Commercial Aviation. Issued in 1999, this stamp issue celebrates the success of commercial aviation in Ireland and features the Douglas DC 3, the Britten Norman Islander, the Boeing 707 and the Lockheed Constellation. An important factor in the development of airlines was the establishment of airports at key locations around the country, which in turn brought economic growth to these areas. Dublin and Shannon are obvious examples of such development but equally, regional airports at Cork, Galway, Sligo, Kerry, Waterford and Knock have contributed enormously to the economic lives of these regions.¹⁵

In Conclusion

As I conclude this review of some of the aerophilately associated with Shannon Airport, it has been pointed out by others that practically all the classic Irish First Flights were made before the coming of Ireland's airmail stamps which, I might add is perhaps the most beautiful set of stamps Ireland ever produced. By the end of 1945 all of the major airlines were flying landplanes into Shannon Airport. The first set of airmail stamps, the 3d and 6d, did not appear until April 1948. One of the big attractions of Shannon was its customs-free airport, the first in the world. Did you know that Ireland, at least in 1952, had two Post Offices that never closed – the G.P.O in Dublin and the Shannon Airport Post Office. In 1986, a facility was opened at Shannon, eliminating the need to go through immigration on arrival in the United States.

What increased my interest in writing this article was something that I saw in IrishCentral in 2021, just one year after the 75th anniversary of the opening of the Airport. The article related a petition "Save Shannon Airport". The petition was launched not long after Aer Lingus announced that it would be shuttering its cabin crew base at Shannon Airport, and would soon be temporarily closing operations at Cork Airport. The move drew a strong reaction from the Irish diaspora who relies on Shannon Airport for access to the south and west of Ireland, as opposed to traveling via the more eastern Dublin Airport. Aer Lingus has not flown commercially in or out of Shannon since April 2020, and this has contributed to its sharp decrease in passenger traffic.¹⁶

Miniature Masterpieces: 100 Years of Irish Stamps

Michael O'Reilly

On a recent trip to Dublin, I visited the National Print Museum in Beggars Bush, off Haddington Road. The museum was hosting an exhibition on the role of stamps in describing the evolution of Irish cultural identity over the last century. The exhibition was curated by An Post's Stephen Fergusson, and was a joint effort by An Post & the National Print Museum.

The exhibition was dedicated to the history, design and production of Irish stamps - from the official overprinting in Irish of British King George V stamps, to the symbolism of the first Irish stamp designs in 1922-23, to contemporary stamps which are expressions of Irish identity in fashion, music, and urban street art. The exhibition has been described as a tiny window into Ireland's history, culture, and society. Postage stamps, these "Miniature Masterpieces" offer a representation of Irish society and how it has changed over the years. The power of stamps to reflect how Ireland sees itself was recognized in the early days of the state, when in 1926, the Irish Nobel poet laureate W.B. Yeats stated in the Irish senate that:

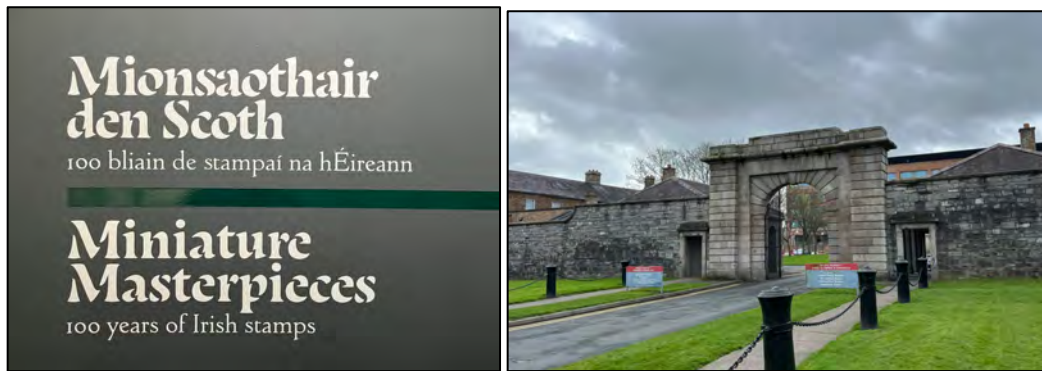

Fig. 1 Location of Print Museum, Beggar's Bush Barracks, Dublin 4, where exhibition was held

“Designs in connection with postage stamps and coinage may be described, I think, as the silent ambassadors on national taste.”

The exhibition displayed not only a wide selection of Irish stamps, but also original artwork, design proofs, printing plates and other treasures from the An Post Museum & Archive, some of which were on public display for the first time.

“This exhibition acknowledges the contribution of all involved in Irish stamp production but, above all, it pays tribute to the stamp itself and invites our visitors to take time to think about this unassuming fragment of coloured paper,” said the exhibition’s curator, Stephen Ferguson, who is the Company Archivist & Museum Curator at An Post. “At first glance, a stamp is just an everyday object in the corner of a letter but, on closer inspection, it’s a work of art, a symbol of identity, and a unique prism through which we can view and reflect on the formation and development of the Irish State.”

There were very informative displays of early covers both before and after the introduction of the first adhesive postage stamp, the “Penny Black” in 1840. An example was shown of how town and mileage marks assisted the post office to calculate the postage rates addressed to Kanturk, Co. Cork from Limerick.

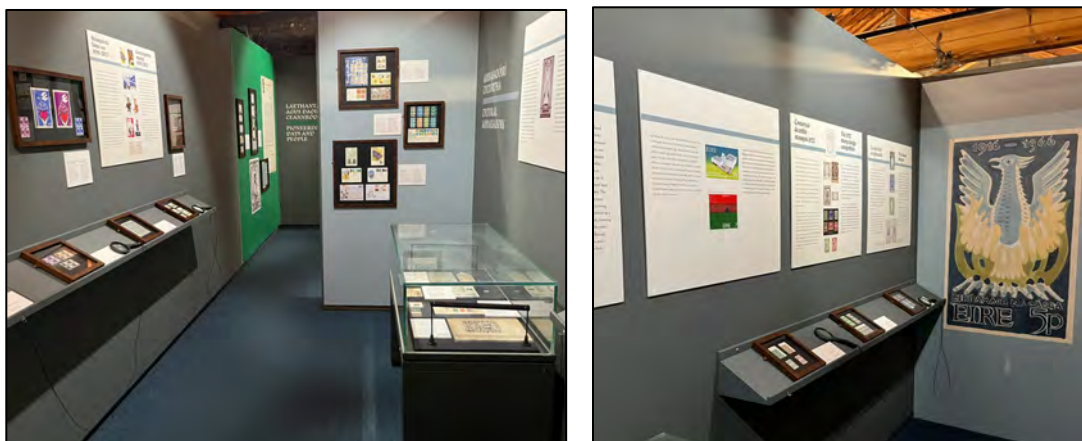

Fig. 2 Example of exhibits

The design process was explained and the particular difficulty of working in miniature emphasized. Throughout the years, many artistic styles are represented in Irish stamp design—painting, drawing, caricature, photography, computerized design – each reflecting not just the talents of the designer but the artistic design of the age. Many very fine but ultimately unsuccessful designs are held within the An Post Museum & Archive and a number of these were on display at the exhibition.

Fig. 3 Examples of unadopted stamp designs

Examples are shown of stamps designed by leading Irish designers including Muriel Brandt (1949 Republic of Ireland), Richard King (1934 GAA Golden Jubilee), Robert Ballagh (1979 Pearse centenary) and Amanda Daly (2006, love). Also included were examples of the work of Patrick Scott, Wendy Walsh & Charles Rycraft.

There were also detailed explanations and artifacts on the various printing techniques used to produce Irish stamps throughout the years. Early Irish stamps were Typographed - a term used for the letterpress method of printing, where the design is printed from the ink raised surface of the printing plate. Later, Irish stamps were printed using the Recess method, where the stamp shows sharp detail and has a definite texture noticeable to the touch. The Photogravure method, where there is a smooth finish to the stamp's surface became common in the 1960's. From the 1980's, Lithographic printing became the most common method of producing Irish stamps.

The story of the designs selected for the first Irish postage stamps is well documented in the exhibition. Included are unaccepted designs, proofs and a display of the plates and trial die for the Feb 1923 printing of the five-penny Sword of Light Stamp. Also on display were plates for the Thom five-line Rialtas and three-line Saorstat overprints in 1922.

There were also exhibits on a number of Irish contributors to the world of Philately including:

The 5th Duke of Leinster: Formed one of the finest early collections, The Leinster Collection, which he bequeathed to the Dublin Museum of Science & Art (now the Irish National Museum) in 1893. Includes the 1854 "inverted Swan" error from Western Australia.

Fig. 4 Exhibit on well-known Irish stamp Designers

Fig. 5 Plate for the 1923 five-penny Sword of Light Stamp

Henry Archer: Inventor of a prototype stamp perforating machine in 1854. Early stamps such as the Penny Black were cut from the sheet by hand using scissors.

William Mulready: Ennis Co. Clare born artist who was asked by Sir Rowland Hill to design prepaid postcards and envelopes to be sold at post offices. Highly collectible (& expensive) postal ephemeral.

John Bourke: Some say that the first collection of stamps was made by an Irishman, who was the receiver general of stamp duties in Ireland. In 1774, he collected in an album, samples of each stamp duty impression used in Ireland.

There was much more material presented on Irish stamps and the design process and the philatelic enthusiast could have easily spent a number of enjoyable hours perusing what was on offer. The exhibition concluded with a thought-provoking comment from Stephen Ferguson on “Stamps – what does the future hold?” which I reproduce in full below.

The future of stamps is tied to the future of the letter. As forms of communication change, it is hard to see the continuation of something that, for most people has little daily relevance. Post Offices today are businesses which continue to provide the useful social services they always have but within firmly commercial parameters. As letter volumes decline, making stamps becomes increasingly uneconomic when machine readable labels are enough to show proof of postage and facilitate mail processing. In these circumstances, it is not easy to see the stamp continuing to fulfil its role as national cultural ambassador.

That is not to say, however, that stamps will become insignificant. On the contrary, as societies move towards a greater digital experience, stamps will become, for the archivist and social historian, as well as students of design and print technology, increasingly important as physical artifacts that offer unique insights into the cultural perceptions and realities of earlier Irish generations.

STEPHEN FERGUSON

Company Archivist & Museum Curator

An Post

In conclusion, I would like to thank An Post and the National Print Museum for hosting such an excellent exhibition. There were many exhibits which were of interest to both the general visitor and the philatelic specialist. In particular, Stephen Ferguson is to be complemented on his usual erudite presentation of all things Irish philatelic.

My one criticism – this was a temporary exhibition which was only open for six months. A considerable gap was made in serving Irish philately when An Post decided to close the Philatelic Museum in Dublin’s GPO at the end of May 2015. Many would canvas to see this or a similar exhibition hosted in a more permanent venue, given the evidence of what is available in the various archives and how it can contribute to telling the social history of Ireland and it’s people. Indeed, when I spoke to one of the National Print Museum curators, they mentioned that the stamp exhibition generated significantly increased visitor traffic – especially of younger patrons.

Postscript: If in Dublin, The National Print Museum, is definitely worth a visit. Just a short walk from the Lansdowne Road DART station, it also has an excellent café.

An Post has published a companion 51 page booklet “Miniature Masterpieces” authored by Stephen Ferguson, which is available to order at €12.00 from their website www.anpost.com/shop

British to Irish Postal Stationery Transition (1922 to 1927) Part 1

By Brian Callan FRPSL

The 1921 Anglo-Irish Treaty between Great Britain and Ireland was ratified by Great Britain on 16 December 1921 and by Dáil Éireann on 7 January 1922, with the formal handover of power carried out on 16 January 1922. This treaty established Ireland's right to self-government (for 26 counties) under Dominion status within the British Empire while the six counties of Northern Ireland remained in the United Kingdom. The Transition Period covered the period of change between the British and the new Irish postal systems in the 26 counties. The Treaty had 18 articles, article 17 of which related to the transition of authority between the British and the Irish Provisional Government postal authorities, which was completed at midnight on 31 March 1922 (the end of the financial year at the time). British and Irish (British overprinted) stamps could legally be used in this newly independent 21 counties up to 31 March 1922 after which only the overprinted stamps were allowed. The Transition Period for postal stationery extended very much beyond this, until late 1924 for posted items and 1927 for postal orders, when the Free State postal stationery eventually displaced all the British elements. The signing of the Anglo-Irish Treaty was followed by an 18 month civil war in the 21 counties during which the Provisional Government gave way to the Irish Free State in December 1922. The last British stamps bearing a provisional government overprint (in Gaelic) were issued on 4 December 1922 while all overprinted British stamps after 6 December 1922 had an Irish Free State overprint (also in Gaelic).

While the adhesive stamps were quickly overprinted, a decision was made early on that the Provisional Government would retain the use of the existing British postal stationery without overprinting, except in the case of postal orders. Iris an Phuist (No. 3 issued on 30 March 1922), the postal communication media of the new Irish postal authorities, stated "Stamps printed or embossed on postcards, lettercards, envelopes, wrappers, registered letters etc. will not be overprinted for the present and should be allowed to pass hitherto". The British Post Office received revenue up until 31 March 1922 whereupon revenue transferred to the new Irish postal authorities, while the British Post Office continued to supply the postal stationery materials with the British designs until 1924. The only design exception was the change of colour to green for the KGV embossed indicia on registered envelopes and telegraph forms. McCorquodale & Co. was the only supplier of postal stationery to the British Post Office at this time, which continued to be the case all through the transition period.

The one area of British postal stationery that was overprinted were postal orders, which continued to be used with various overprints and these were the last items to be replaced, continuing in use to the end of 1927.

Envelopes and Lettercards

Prior to the transition, postal stationery letters were either embossed with a 2d orange KGV indicium for normal mail weighing less than 1 oz or with a 1d red KGV indicium for printed matter weighing less than 2 oz. Envelopes had to remain unsealed in order to qualify for the printed matter rate. These envelopes and rates continued to be used during the transition period (Figure 1). The British Post Office reduced their letter rate to 1½d (up to 4 oz) and printed matter rate to ½d (up to 1 oz) on 29 May 1922 but the new Irish Provisional Government postal authorities retained the 2d and 1d rates respectively. The British Post Office reissued the 1½d dark brown KGV embossed envelopes that had been in use prior to 1920, which could now only be used in the 21 counties by upgrading with a ½d overprinted adhesive (Figure 2). The orange and brown KGV embossed envelopes remained in use until 1924 when the Irish Free State introduced the 2d green embossed harp indicium (Figure 3). Similar to embossed envelopes, the 2d yellow-orange KGV indicium was retained on the lettercard and this was used without change until the first 2d green typographed lettercard was introduced in 1924. Because lettercards were much less popular than envelopes, many smaller post offices still retained stocks of the 1½d brown KGV lettercard that were in use prior to 1920, many of which had been upgraded with a ½d green KGV definitive which had not been overprinted. Unlike other postal stationery, these upgraded lettercards were officially accepted for use by instruction of the new Irish Provisional Government postal authority on 12 April 1922 (Iris an Phuist No. 4).

Figure 3. First Irish Free State postal stationery introduced in 1924, introducing the now iconic harp series.

It is likely that there was a significant shortage of postal stationery items for about six months following the reduction in British rates on 29 May 1922. Iris an Phuist (No. 17 of 25 October 1922) deals with postal stationery in most detail. Shortage of material has been inferred from the introduction “Supplies of Stamped Postal Stationery are again available and may be obtained on requisition in the usual way”. The article goes on to indicate that “The stationery is not overprinted and envelopes bearing stamps embossed in brown and scarlet as well as green may be sold.” The reference to green in respect to envelopes is not clear and may refer to registered envelopes, where the indicia were all green, or may be in anticipation of the reduction of printed matter rates which took place a week later on 1 November 1922. The new printed matter rates were the same as those introduced in the United Kingdom earlier that year, allowing the usage of the ½d green envelope.

Printed Matter envelopes:

Up to 1oz	½d
1oz to 2 oz	1d
2oz to 4 oz	1½d
4oz to 6oz	2d
Each additional 2oz	½d (up to 2lb).

Of equal significance is the lack of any mention of the 2d orange embossed envelopes in communication No. 17, which suggests these may have been no longer available, in which case the 1½d brown embossed brown envelopes would have been the major postal stationery envelope in use after this time (Figure 2).

Postcards

The May 1922 postal rate change in Great Britain went from the 1½d brown postcard printing back to the 1d carmine printing used from 1919 to 1921. However, the inland and foreign postage rate at the time of transition in the Irish Provisional Government remained at 1½d throughout the transition period. Therefore, the 1½d brown KGV postcard was retained during this period (Figure 4), until it was replaced in September 1924 with the 1½d purple typographed harp. Old stocks of postcards with either the 1d carmine KGV stamp or the ½d green KGV stamp could only be used if upgraded with a ½d or 1d overprinted adhesive respectively. Stocks of postal stationery postcards in existing post offices across the United Kingdom were returned to the Post Office in Great Britain and subsequently used to supply the Irish Free State. Reply postcards were not supplied to the new Irish postal authorities by the British Post Office but any existing stocks were still valid for use, with the carmine 1d accepted as was but the older ½d green card required upgrading with overprinted adhesives (Figure 5).

Newspaper Wrappers

Two newspaper wrappers were in use at the time of transition from the British postal authorities, the ½d green KGV and the 1d red KGV wrappers. While both wrappers remained valid for use, the newspaper rate in the Irish Free State was 1d (up to 1 oz) so there was no specific use for the ½d wrapper which needed to be upgraded with an overprinted adhesive for use (Figure 6). The reduction in rate for printed matter in the Irish Free State on 1 November 1922, which applied to newspapers at the time, gave a legitimate use for the ½d green KGV wrapper (up to 1oz). These British wrappers became obsolete on 20 August 1924, when they were replaced by the Irish post office wrapper.

Registered Envelopes

The registered envelope in use at the time of the Transition was the 5d orange embossed KGV stamp, first issued June 1921 (Figure 7), available in the traditional sizes F, G, H and K. The 5d rate included the 2d postage and 3d registration fee. When the British rate changed to 4½d in May 1922, a new envelope with some design changes was made for use in the United Kingdom and the KGV indicia was changed to a puce colour. However, early in 1922, a print run of the original envelope with the indicia in light green (emerald green) was issued for the Irish Free State (Figures 8 and 9), with the earliest recorded use of this envelope not until 21 July 1922. The inscription “McCorquodale & Co. Ltd. Contractors” appears under the flap of the envelope, along with a two letter designation as to when the envelope was printed, the first letter indicating the month and the second letter indicating the year (e.g. AQ = January 1922, BQ = February 1922 etc.). The emerald green embossed envelopes were issued in the four standard sizes, F, G, H and K.

This was followed by a further issue in 1923, where the British design elements were included in the 5d embossed envelopes for use in the Irish Free State and the colour was changed to an olive green. Envelopes with the first olive green embossed indicia were only issued in sizes F and G. A further design change was made to the British 4½d registered envelope and this was included in the 5d olive green embossed envelopes issued in late 1923, where an envelope size designation was included in the registration label space (Figures 10 and 11). This second olive embossed envelope was printed in all four standard sizes. All postal stationery material at this time was supplied by the British Post Office, so it is not clear why the colour changed to green for use in the Irish Free State. This was likely the preference of the Irish customer, facilitated as this was the only customer who now required a 5d embossed stamp but may also have been a desire by the Irish Free State to avoid the use of an orange embossed stamp, which would have upset many nationalists.

Hans-Jürgen Goebelbecker

The German Research and Study Group on Irish Philately (“Forschungs- und Arbeitsgemeinschaft Irland” - FAI) has published a second, extensively revised version of the catalogue “Irish Post Offices and Their Postmarks since 1600” in May 2024.

This classic, well-known among friends of Irish philately – originally by Harald Frank and Klaus Stange (1990) – has now been digitized, revised and expanded. It is now available in two digital versions (English and German). Each of them with approximately 460 pages can be downloaded free of charge from the FAI website (<http://fai-germany.de>) - divided into six modules. The files are updated at regular intervals depending on the receipt of new information.

This publication thus joins the great movement of our time for free access to information media such as Wikipedia and many public media (German public media institutions, BBC etc.).
